November in July

You are invited to join us for a stimulating discussion and dinner meeting with four prominent experts in the field of educational technology.

> The real revolution is not about technology. It's about access to information and communication. It's not about the wires, it's about what flows through them.

Alan November, Senior Partner of November Learning
http://novemberlearning.com/index.php

Alan November is a well-known leader in Educational Technology. As practitioner, designer, and author, Alan has guided schools, government organizations and industry leaders as they plan to improve quality using technology tools. Alan is a whirlwind of ideas and provocative questions. He thrives on confirming and challenging educators' thoughts about what's possible in the world of teaching and learning.

David Warlick, Consultant and Creator of Landmarks for Schools
http://davidwarlick.com/   http://2cents.davidwarlick.com/

David Warlick is an educator, with the North Carolina State Department of Public Instruction. For the past ten years, has operated The Landmark Project, a consulting, and innovations firm in Raleigh, North Carolina. David has also developed the following tools that many of you may have used: Citation Machine Rubric Builder, PiNet Library Class Blogmeister and The Education Podcast Network

Jim Moulton, Consultant
http://jimmoulton.org

Jim Moulton is an educator focused on preparing the learners of today to be the leaders of tomorrow. Jim is a faculty associate of the George Lucas Educational Foundation where he contributes to the Spiral Notebook Blog.
Jim collaborates with others in his home state of Maine. a recurring theme in his work with schools is, "Beyond Could, Past Should, to Must - The critical role of technology in education.

Judi Harris, Professor and Chair of Educational Technology at The College of William and Mary, http://education.wm.edu/programs/eppl/faculty/Harris.php

Dr. Harris is the author of 5 books and 185 articles about effective integration of technology in the classroom. Originally an elementary-level classroom teacher and K-6 mathematics/ computer specialist, she leads professional development programs and speaks to educators in the U.S. and Canada about telementoring, including professional learning and support for new teachers online.

- At UVM's New Davis Center Ballroom, free parking
- Includes Appetizer, Choice of three entrees, Salad. Dessert, soft drink, coffee or tea
- Cash Bar & Reception from 6:00 – 7:00 PM
- Cost $75 per person. Payments & Reservations by June 15, 2008
- Professional Development Certificate for all attendees
- Further information and Reservations at http://www.uvm.edu/pt3/leadership/apply