

Allen House Multicultural Art Gallery

Spring 2014

FEB 2 - FEB 27

K'Vay: What Do You See?

K'Vay (pronounced kay-vay) comes from the Spanish "Que ve?" or "What do you see?" K'Vay art joins together Natasha Sky's daily experience and inner dialogue around her multiracial identity and the experiences of passing.

MAR 2 - MAR 31

30 Years Staring at the Sun: Reflection of Life and Death

As a published author, Sydnee Viray explores the past 30 years of her life through her poetry and stories. She examines the nirvana of existence through kinetic typography, illuminating the many evolutions that we move through as humans. She uses original photography and her original words to expose visually and literally.

APR 1 - APR 30

Vermont Queer Archives

With a selection of pieces from the archives, this installation reflects how some portions of the LGBTQA community in Vermont have defined themselves through images and language. Varying definitions and descriptions of the community can be traced, from women's communities to lesbian and gay pride parades to queer community gatherings. Presented by the Pride Center of Vermont.

GALLERY HOURS: MON - FRI, 9:00AM - 4:30PM | 461 MAIN STREET, BURLINGTON, VT 05405

The University of Vermont
Center for Cultural Pluralism

Co-sponsored by the Vice President for Human Resources, Diversity & Multicultural Affairs.
For more information or to request accommodations for the exhibit receptions, please call (802) 656-8833
or email ccp@uvm.edu. | www.uvm.edu/~ccpuvm