

Pizza Delivery - hosted by Engineers Without Borders

Get pizza delivered right to your dorm with no delivery charge! We will bring you pizza from American flatbread delivered right to your dorm while supporting a good cause. The UVM engineers without borders student chapter is hosting a fundraiser at American Flatbread. Send an email to the contact information below with the subject line flatbread order. In the email include what you will be ordering, where you want it delivered to, and the contact information for who will be receiving the order. We will email you a confirmation and a time to place your order to be ready for pick up. Proceeds from this fundraiser will go towards the cost of our projects and sustaining our club for future projects.

Email: mduval@uvm.edu - include subject line “flatbread order”

About EWB

The University of Vermont’s Engineers Without Borders (EWB) is an academic group of undergraduate students studying various engineering disciplines. We provide local and international assistance with community-based engineering projects on a volunteer basis.

Our most recent project took us to Arusha, Tanzania. There, we partnered with LOHADA, a local orphanage, and school. The LOHADA Orphanage is a nonprofit organization located in Arusha, Tanzania. We’ve designed and implemented a reliable and cost-efficient solar electric system so their girl’s dormitory could have safe, reliable lighting at night; and so older students can study after dark.

We also visited ECONEF, a rural orphanage in King’ori. This area is extremely dry, and they require a well to fulfill their water needs through the dry seasons. As the climate becomes increasingly arid there, they are facing a dangerous situation.
